DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-38 and 44-51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

The claims are directed to a method, process or system for performing a sequence of steps which is merely a program per se. While the program contains functionally descriptive material the recording of the functionally descriptive material on some computer-readable medium, which would enable the functionality to be realized, fails to be recited. Relative to claims 28 and 44 the recitation of a “tangible” machine readable medium does not make it tangible in the legal sense. Lacking a definition of tangible in the specification the phrase “tangible medium” may include software, e.g. instructions, embodied in a transmission, e.g. via carrier waves, note pages 9-10 of the specification.

Applicants’ argues that the “claimed shuffling” is not a program per se but since the claimed shuffling can be implemented via instructions it reads on a program per se. Applicants’ argument relative to practical application is moot because the rejection is program per se, not lack of practical application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 11-14, 44-46 and 50 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Rice et al (Rice).

Rice's Fig. 5 illustrates a method of rearranging data wherein first and second data are loaded (the contents of register 504), a first and second control mask are loaded (the contents of register 508), two control masks which are different selectively operate on different data (the masks via the multiplexer control select the data to be operated on), shuffling the data in accordance with the masks (effected by the multiplexers) and merging the shuffled data (the feeding of the outputs of the multiplexers to the register 524).

Applicants' argument relative to claim 1 is moot because claim 1 is not rejected as anticipated by Rice. Contrary to applicants' remarks relative to claim 11 the loading of the control masks selects the data to be shuffled and different masks operate on different data.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. Claims 6, 9, 17-27, 31-33, 37, 38, 42, 43, 48 and 49 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Art Unit: 2193

The last four lines of claim 6 are clearly indefinite. How is the “source select field” related to the “selection field” and how are the “plurality of table data elements”, the “plurality of table sections”, the “first source” and the “second source” related. To what disclosed subject matter to each of the above quoted elements correspond respectively. Claims 17, 31, 37, 42 and 48 contain deficiencies similar to claim 6. In claim 9 the phrase “each single instruction multiple data register” lacks clear antecedent basis.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 39-41 are allowed.
6. Claims 42 and 43 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Art Unit: 2193
